

The Red Shed – Open Days

We have been running courses for thirty years on a wide range of topics and over time have discovered what matters to attendees.

1. They want to learn what they came to learn
2. The experience is enjoyable, and the company is good
3. They know what to expect and have their expectations listened to and acted upon
4. The course meets contemporary guidelines on best practice including:
 - Inclusiveness
 - Health & Safety
 - Interaction

We always choose locations and catering which add to the event. In addition we believe it is important to exceed people's expectations, so participants go away not just happy but with additional insights and provocations to action that will reach beyond their original goals – a free bonus! To help us meet these goals it would be great if you could return to us the following table completed.

Useful notes. We are not in charge of the weather. Lots of thin layers are better than a few fat ones. Always better to have rain protection and something warm in case. Umbrellas are OK but can be difficult if there are lots of people around. Hats and gloves can be a good idea. Please do not leave your property behind. Items can be returned on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope, but it's better not to have to.

No dogs in the garden (except guide dogs). The gardens are largely accessible but there are steps in some places, so not great for wheelchair users. There are two steps up to enter the house (for example to use the WC). Please remove outdoor shoes if going beyond the kitchen (e.g. to the toilet). There are risks on the site. Please read and pay attention to health and safety instructions. We will demonstrate foraging. Please do not pick and eat anything without guidance as the garden also contains plants which are poisonous.

50% of profits are invested in charities we support: current Abundant Borders and Friends of African Nursing. If you wish to provide additional support for these endeavours please let us know.

If you have booked and are running late please let us know. 01890 88 2448 / 07989 330550 are best.

We do try to minimise carbon footprint so lift shares are welcome. There is a bus stop at the end of our lane. (Borders Buses No.67 runs between Galashiels and Berwick upon Tweed Railway Stations).
